Seeing God's Good Hand

"As for you, you meant evil against me, but God meant it for good, to bring it about that many people should be kept alive, as they are today." - Genesis 50:20 (ESV)

Joseph - the boy with the coat of many colours. Joseph - the teen who was sold into slavery by his brothers. Joseph - the young man who was unjustly thrown into jail. Joseph - the man who would rule over all Egypt and yield power second only to Pharaoh. Joseph - the one who would offer forgiveness to his brothers and restore his family unit.

Our goal for this study is to appreciate how Joseph's story assures us that God is sovereign and in control – in times of plenty and in times of need; to grasp how Joseph's story magnifies God's goodness – even in events that we can't possibly understand; to sense God's very real presence in Joseph's story; and to see how Joseph's story points us directly to the Lord Jesus Christ and the manner in which he came to bring about good and to give eternal life to many people, including you and me.

This study will run from on-site at the Met from Sep 22 - Dec 8 and online from Sep 29 - Dec 15. Please note that your registration and the $20 fee covers both the Fall 2021 study session and the Winter 2022 study in the book of Matthew which will run on-site at the Met from Jan 26 - May 25 and online from Feb 2 - Jun 1.
